I own a 1990 Rockwood on a 1989, 1990 model year E350 chassis with a 460 7.5 ltr fuel injected engine. In my opinion Ford had trouble with the fuel delivery system on the first 460 fuel injected motors especially the engines located a long ways from the fuel tank like in Motor Homes and stretched chassis applications.

I have a project or parts 1990 obs Ford F250 for sale. I was gonna make a truck out of it, but just don't have the time. It has no engine or transmission in it, and I can longer remember where I put the title. It is 2wd, has around 90,000 miles on it, I'd have to look to be sure. It did have a fuel injected 460 and an auto transmission.
