Look for the appliance's power rating in watts. You may find it on a label on the appliance, or in the owner's manual, or you can contact the manufacturer or look online. Divide the number of watts by 120 (the AC voltage), and the result, in amps, is the maximum rating of the appliance for current.

Colored lights will look decent in just about any build, since it'll drown out the color of your parts. If your build has a bunch of different colors that look awful together—a blue motherboard, red RAM, and a yellow graphics card—bathing the entire thing in blue light (for example) can make it look a little less clown-like.
