A Good Journalist:

Understands the basics of the issues being reported on
Does not interject his opinion into a piece (unless it is an editorial or opinion-driven article)
Strives to get both sides of the story for a balanced presentation
Checks and re-checks facts for accuracy
Uses credible sources ...

This is a course in basic journalism skills, designed for the many people who are now taking advantage of new media to publish news, views and information. For five hundred years, the privilege of being able to publish was enjoyed by very few people - those who had access to a printing press or a radio microphone or a television camera.
