Genius Loci

In classical Roman religion, a genius loci (plural genii locorum) was the protective spirit of a place. It was often depicted in religious iconography as a figure holding attributes such as a cornucopia, patera (libation bowl) or snake. Many Roman altars found throughout the Western Roman Empire were dedicated to a particular genius loci.

A genius loci is difficult to spot, since it looks like any other section of landscape. A genius loci itself has no intelligence, but rather “emulates” the sentience of any creature it currently enslaves (see below), if any. Each genius loci has only a single enslaved creature at one time, though other creatures may also inhabit the surface of the genius loci.

Genius loci je latinské slovní spojení znamenající „duch místa“. V římské mytologii byl genius loci duch či bůžek, ochraňující určité místo, často býval zobrazován jako had nebo jako postava s rohem hojnosti. V dnešním slovníku má však tento obrat spíš význam specifické atmosféry dané oblasti, než jakési místní ochraňující síly.
