Culture (/ ' k ʌ l tʃ ə r /) is an umbrella term which encompasses the social behavior and norms found in human societies, as well as the knowledge, beliefs, arts, laws, customs, capabilities, and habits of the individuals in these groups.. Humans acquire culture through the learning processes of enculturation and socialization, which is shown by the diversity of cultures across societies.

Culture - Wikipedia

Symbolic and Interpretive Anthropology emerged in the 1960s when Victor Turner, Clifford Geertz, and David Schneider were at the University of Chicago and is still influential today. Symbolic and Interpretive Anthropology does not follow the model of physical sciences, which focus on empirical material phenomena, but is literary-based.

Symbolic and Interpretive Anthropology | Cultural Anthropology

Anthropology is the scientific study of humanity, concerned with human behavior, human biology, cultures, societies, and linguistics, in both the present and past, including past human species. Social anthropology studies patterns of behaviour, while cultural anthropology studies cultural meaning, including norms and values. A portmanteau sociocultural anthropology is commonly used today.

Related Quotations "Cultures do not generally remain static. There are many forces working toward change and diversity. Some societies and individuals adapt to this change whereas others suffer culture shock and succumb to ethnocentrism" (Kendall 2006:57). "Empirical evidence suggests that a predisposition to favor in-groups can be easily triggered by even arbitrary group distinctions ...
