Rich has it exactly right, if your vintage UNGO is wired into the car's ignition as the antitheft feature and you are driving down the road and it can shut your car off WHILE driving. My friend was an UNGO dealer back in the day and he used to wire my systems w/o that feature because they did fail.

There are three Ungo boxes and the main box lists the model as a TL1600. I have no manual for the alarm system and I'm wondering if anyone can shed light on the situation. Should I gut the alarm system entirely? I'm worried that this might cause other issues since I do not know how the system is tied into the car and how it was wired.
